

Partnership Compensation

The Filene Research Institute does, on occasion, partner with non-profits, government agencies, and universities to acquire and/or execute work described within federal and non-federal grants. Partnering allows us to bring greater resources to the project and value to credit unions and consumers.

As such, the Filene Research Institute does not pay general indirect costs (non project-specific overhead) of partnering organizations. This practice ensures that grant funds are focused on the research or innovation undertaken. Please contact Dan Hoover, danh@filene.org, for further details.
